

SPLENDID PAGEANT OVER IN LONDON

THE WHOLE BRITISH EMPIRE HONORS ITS RULER.

Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria Celebrated at London Amid the Plaudits of Millions of Her Subjects—Magnificence of the Procession Was Never Equalled.

London, June 23.—Dr. Chauncey M. Depew has written for the Associated Press his impressions of the jubilee. They are as follows:

"The diamond jubilee procession has passed and has left a lasting impression. Its preparation required sixty years, and it was over in sixty minutes. Pride, power and adoration were its characteristics. Pride in the imperial position of Great Britain in the world, and exhibition of power which inspired this national exultation and fervid loyalty in action, expression and thought of the queen."

"The monarch, escorted by princes and guarded by the military forces of the realms, both regulars and volunteers, national and colonial, evidenced the strength and permanency of the monarchical system with this people."

"We Americans glory in our country and in its marvelous developments in a hundred years, and duly assert ourselves on the Fourth of July. The celebration by the Germans of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle of Sedan and the founding of the German empire, which I saw, was a wonderful exhibition of race and national feeling."

"But the concentrated and irrepressible joy and pride which preceded, accompanied and followed the queen like a resistless torrent surpassed anything ever witnessed before. Though many races participated, the dominant and observing expression was British, and the glory was Britain's. Peers and commoners, masters and workmen, millionaires and the multitude were welded by a tremendous force. This concentration of loyalty from the remotest corners of the earth into one wild, frantic mass of patriotic enthusiasm, had an effect upon observers which can be likened to nothing so much as to the north and south electrified by the first gun fire at Fort Sumter, by the Seventh regiment marching down Broadway to the defense of the capital."

"I can conjure no tribute like the popular ovation to the queen ever being given to any human being, except the reception to Washington by the people on his way from Mount Vernon to New York to assume the position of first President of the United States. Respect, reverence, love or gratitude are words too tame, and there is no intermediate expression between them and adoration. That she was deeply moved was evident, but she seemed more absorbed by the significance of the event than conscious of her part. Therein she impressed me as proud and happy with this grand tribute of her people, but at the same time sharing with them the universal joy that there has not been such a sixty years in recorded time; that all nations have enjoyed its benefits and blessings, and none more than our own. But for this day and place the crowd only saw what Great Britain has gained during her reign and accorded praise therefor to her. Her reign has been a period of emancipation in English history. The prerogatives of the throne have diminished, and by her rule and conduct its power has so increased that this welcome came with such acclaim and unanimity from the free people, governing themselves, who gave it its might and majesty."

"Making due allowance for the exaltation of the hour, Victoria will occupy a great place in the history of the nineteenth century. Her influence for peace has been of momentous consequence to Great Britain, Europe and civilization."

"She has always been cordial in her friendship and anxious for the loftiest relationship with the United States. Her messages, sweet, tender and womanly, to the widow of Lincoln and the wife of the dying Garfield gave her a warm welcome and a permanent memory in our American homes."

"In estimating her influence we must picture what might have occurred with a warlike or corrupt sovereign and recognize in her power the accumulated force of sixty years of wisdom as a ruler and as the best example as woman, wife and mother."

The whole affair passed off without a hitch. In the evening her majesty gave a family dinner party in the state supper room of Buckingham palace. All the members of the royal family were present, as well as all the royal guests. Their suites dined in the garden vestibule."

The queen has sent the following message to the British colonies and to India: "From my heart I thank my beloved people. May God bless them."

GLORY OF BRITAIN.

Magnificent Procession Passes Through London's Streets.

London, June 22.—The great procession in honor of Queen Victoria was practically in three sections as far as St. Paul's, though the last two en route to the cathedral were consolidated as they moved into Piccadilly. The first to take up position was the colonial procession, which formed on the embankment and moved via the Mall, thence past the palace, where her majesty viewed it from a window over the route to St. Paul's.

The march began at 8:45, and the great cortege proved a welcome relief to the waiting multitude. The procession was headed by an advance party of the royal horse guards. Then followed the band of the same corps playing the inspiring "Washington Post March." Closing upon the band came a portion of the picturesque northwest mounted police as escort to the first colonial premier, the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier.

The Northwest police, men to whom evidently a saddle had never been a novelty, made a striking appearance—quite as brave and serviceable-looking as the New South Wales mounted rifles with their gray semi-sombreros and black cock's plumes who succeeded them, escorting the premier of New South Wales, the Hon. S. H. Reid.

The Victorian mounted troops followed, smart, weather-beaten fellows in unattractive brownish uniforms, succeeded by the new mounted contingent, a fine-looking, sun-burned lot, drawn from almost every town of any importance in the colony, displaying uniforms intended for the conflict rather than the parade ground. Then came New Zealand's premier, the Hon. Richard J. Seddon.

For the moment Australia gave way. Africa was allowed a chance and the Cape of Good Hope mounted rifles—well set-up men—wearing the scarlet, with white helmets, rode by to herald the coming of the cape premier, the Hon. Sir J. Gordon Sprigg, C. M. G.

Hardly had he been noticed and to the majority unknown when attention was claimed for the yellowish-brown Kharke lit with bright scarlet from the blazing puggaree on the spiked helmets to the double stripes down the seams of tightly-fitting corduroy trousers with large chamois leather patches where the knee gripped the saddle, which knelt the South Australian mounted troops.

From Newfoundland one was transported to Natal by the Natal mounted troops, a contingent similar in model and equipment to their cape brothers-in-arms. The Hon. Sir H. N. Nelson, K. C. M. G., rode after them, the official personification of western Australia.

The premier being disposed of, then succeeded a really most attractive display—mounted troops of the crown colonies, the Rhodesia horse, the colonial infantry, broken by three bands, typical of the united kingdom, those of St. George's, the London Scottish and the London Irish rifle volunteer corps, and others.

Then there passed a splendid contingent of Canadian infantry, 175 strong, uniformed somewhat like the regular service infantry, with Col. Aylmer leading, much applause was bestowed upon the fine marching of these men, who in every way kept the dominion to the front.

Following came the real oddities in the eyes of Londoners, of which the Zaptiehs from Cyprus divided the honors with the Dyaks of Borneo. Both are military police; the Zaptiehs were mounted on island ponies and naturally wore the Turkish fez, with a jacket somewhat suggestive of Constantinople and the minarets of Stamboul.

The Borneo Dyaks, yellow colored smallish chaps, were eagerly expected by the crowd, owing to their head-hunting preclivities, of which, however, no trace could be noticed in their dress. These and others coming after emphasized and repeated the fact how widely scattered are the races the queen rules.

The Trinidad field artillery, the Sierra Leone militia with their strange, small blue turbans and depending tassels and knickerbockers; the British Guiana police, with their white-curtained caps, the Haussas in the familiar zouave costumes of long ago and the royal Niger Haussas—men who fought at Ilorin and Bida—in uniforms of Kharkill cloth, trousers exposing the leg and shaved heads were all blacks. The Haussas, the blackest of the blacks, wearing "the burnished liver of the sun," were most enthusiastically greeted.

The second procession passed the palace fifty minutes after the colonials had climbed Constitution hill. It more than eloquently filled the picture of Britain's war strength; more than magnificently completed the carnival of gorgeous costume and color. Scarlet and blue and gold, white and yellow, shining cuirasses and polished helmets, plumes and tassels, furs, and gold and silver spangled cloth, bullion embroideries and accoutrements, splendid trappings and more splendid trappings for men, sashes and stars, crosses and medals—medals for the Crimea, India, Afghanistan, the Nile, Ashanti, Africa, and dozens of others, and here and there the finest of them all, the finest and most highly prized the world can show, the Victoria cross; death-dealing weapons, swords and revolvers, carbines and cutlasses, batteries of artillery, men of splendid physique and horses with rare action fully entered in the spirit and meaning of it all, the fondly carried colors for which these men would die and over all the rich strains of that music they best loved to hear—the sight was one to stir the blood as only soldiers have stirred it since the dawn of time.

The scores of troops and companies proceeded, which formed on the embankment and moved via the Mall, thence past the palace, where her majesty viewed it from a window over the route to St. Paul's.

SCHEDULE ON WOOL CAUSED MUCH TALK

WARM DEBATE IN THE SENATE TUESDAY.

Western Statesmen Protest Against a Reduction From the House Rates On Wool—Senators Foraker and Allison Debate—Good Progress Was Made

Washington, June 23.—An exciting debate marked the consideration of the wool schedule, which began in the senate Monday. It developed the first serious disagreement on the Republican side of the chamber and led to a warm personal exchange between Senators Carter of Montana and Foraker of Ohio on the one hand and Mr. Allison of Iowa, in charge of the bill, on the other.

Mr. Foraker asserted that an agreement concerning rates on certain wools was being violated and that, under such circumstances, every senator would be free to act for himself.

Mr. Allison, with great vehemence, declared that he could not be driven by threats. Mr. Carter, who had avowed the storm, endeavored to have the paragraph relating to carpet wools go over, with a view to securing some united action, but Mr. Vest, in an ironical speech, objected to delaying the era of prosperity and postponing the public business while Republican senators held a caucus. Mr. Teller of Colorado also spoke against delay and took occasion to say he would not vote for the bill unless objectionable features were eliminated.

Aside from this stormy interruption fair progress was made on the wool schedule. The duty on first-class wool was agreed to at 10 cents per pound and on second-class wool 11 cents, which is between the house and senate rates in each case. The rates on third-class wools went over. Most of the other amendments related to the classification of wools. On one of the amendments Jones of Arkansas spoke against the entire schedule as severely oppressive on the consumers of woolen goods.

QUEER FREAKS OF LIGHTNING

Steeple Near Lemont Is Struck, Dormer Windows Torn Out.

Lemont, Ill., June 23.—Lightning struck the steeple of Cass Church this place, last evening, and played building, about four miles north of some rather curious pranks in doing so.

It circled the steeple, making about ten rounds, as it came down, riddling the shingles and tearing the little dormer windows out badly; then it ran down across the roof in three places, and set the house on fire in many places.

A number of gentlemen who were at a farm house near by succeeded in extinguishing the flames before a great deal of damage had been done.

This Ends the Farce.

Washington, June 23.—Judge Bradley Tuesday sustained a motion of the defense in the case of John W. Macartney, broker of this city, on trial for alleged contempt of the senate sugar trust investigating committee, and ordered the jury to return a verdict of acquittal. The ground of the judge's decision was that the questions asked were individual questions of Senator Allen's, and not committee questions. Mr. Macartney was the last of the alleged recalcitrant witnesses to be tried, so that the record stands: Acquittals, 6; convictions, 1, i. e., Broker Elvertton R. Chapman of New York city, who served 25 days (actual) in jail.

Whitelaw Reid Received.

London, June 22.—About the time the parade started this morning the special envoys who were to take part in the procession began arriving at Buckingham palace to call on the queen. United States Special Envoy Hon. Whitelaw Reid was the first to appear. He drove in, accompanied by one of the royal equestrians, the latter being all gold, scarlet and feathers, while Mr. Reid was quietly attired, wearing an Inverness coat, an opera hat and a white tie. He drove up to the great door of the palace, where he was greeted in passing by a dozen men in gold, and was escorted to the waiting-room by the master of ceremonies, Col. Hon. Sir William James Colville.

One Killed, Five Injured.

Watertown, S. D., June 23.—No more bodies have been found in the debris of the wrecked Mulholland building, although the search has been thorough. Bradley, who was thought to have been dead, turns out to be alive, but badly injured. The full list of victims follows:

D. W. BRADLEY, badly injured.
DAVID WATERHOUSE, who will die.

HENRY ZECK.
S. M'DOWELL.

Want Closer Trade Relations.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 23.—At a meeting of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association last evening action was taken toward advancing this city's commercial relations at Mexico. It was the sense of the meeting that an independent boat line be established between San Pedro and the ports of western Mexico and Central America.

ROBBED BY ONE MAN WHO MADE ESCAPE

DARING TRAIN HOLDUP IN TENNESSEE.

Single Bandit, Armed With Two Pistols, Sacks the Express Car and Obtains From $2,000 to $4,000—The Passengers Were Not Disturbed By the Robbers.

Nashville, Tenn., June 23.—Meager information has been received of a hold-up on the Louisville & Nashville railroad. One man armed with two pistols sacked the express car and obtained, according to reports in Clarksville, from $2,000 to $4,000.

The express car was in charge of Messenger L. C. Brennan. The train, No. 102, left Memphis at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The robbery occurred four miles east of Clarksville at 9:35 o'clock. It is supposed the robber boarded the train at Clarksville. When a few minutes out he entered the car and ordered the messenger to open the safe, which was done. After securing some money the robber pulled the bell cord. When the train slackened its speed he jumped off and made his escape. At midnight bloodhounds were placed on the bandit's trail, and it is thought he will be captured before morning. The passengers were not disturbed and knew nothing of the robbery until it was reported by the messenger.

Columbus, Ind., June 23.—Rev. C. W. Lee of Vevay was nominated by the Republicans to succeed William S. Holman in congress from the fourth district. The nominee is a retired Methodist minister, and owns and lives upon a good farm. He is about 60 years of age. He reached the rank of major in the army. Marion Griffin, his Democratic opponent and townsman, is about 50 years of age, and is the son of a Baptist minister.

His shortage was something over $500,000, and he has persistently refused to explain what he did with the money.

WILL JAPAN RESIST PLAN?

Possible Resort to Force to Prevent Annexation of Hawaii.

Washington, June 23.—Will Japan resort to force, should her verbal protest be vain, to prevent the annexation of Hawaii to this country? Diplomatic and political circles are discussing this question today. The seriousness with which the discussions are conducted argue that little surprise would be caused should Japan go to such lengths. Naturally the state department and Japanese legation decline to admit officially of such a possibility. But their declarations are diplomatic purely, and count for naught. It can be stated, however, that Japan's protest will in no way dampen the ardor or lessen the strength of the annexationists.

ENTERTAINMENT POSTPONED

Woman's Relief Corps Concert To Be Repeated Later On.

A small audience gathered at W. H. Sargent Post hall last evening, to attend the concert given by the Woman's Relief Corps, to dedicate the new piano. For that reason, it was decided to postpone the program for a week. Those present last evening will get tickets to the concert, free. Dr. J. B. Whiting presided, and made a few remarks expressing regret that people should not take more interest in the noble work of the Woman's Relief Corps. He expressed the hope that there would be a large attendance when the concert was repeated, and announced that a short program would be given. It included a piano solo by Miss Carrie Baldwin, a recitation by Miss Elsie Fathers, and solo by Kramer Doty. Remarks were made by Rev. H. W. Thompson and Rev. A. H. Barrington, and at the conclusion of the program, ice cream was served. It is to be hoped that a larger audience will be present when the regular concert is given.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE PICNIC

Celebration at Mayflower Park was Largely Attended Yesterday.

Five hundred people attended the picnic in honor of Queen Victoria, at Mayflower park yesterday. Mayor Thoroughgood presided. Smith's orchestra, Col. E. O. Kimberley and a chorus consisting of Mrs. Q. A. Curtiss, Mrs. Mary Merrill, Miss Etta Nott, and Messrs. William Bladon, William Garbutt, Harry Garbutt, George K. Colling and Fred P. Grove, furnished the music during the exercises and the orchestra afterward played for the dance. Remarks were made by Mayor Thoroughgood, Rev. W. H. Wotton, Rev. H. W. Thompson, Hon. John M. Whitehead and Dr. James Mills.

JAMES ROOT THE CHAMPION.

Long Distance Cycler Makes the Best Rifle Score.

James Root, who lays claim to the local rifle championship, has made numerous scores of late that back up his claim. Out of a possible fifty marks Mr. Root has made 43 at a distance of 500 yards. Dr. James Gibson is a close second. The new rifle range is giving excellent satisfaction, the lay of the ground being far superior to the old range, near the end of South River street.

BELOIT'S JUBILEE TO END TONIGHT

HISTORIC COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES ARE CLOSING.

This Evening's Program Will Bring Them to a Conclusion and Large Delegations of Visitors Are Expected to Attend—Speeches Made Yesterday.

Beloit, Wis., June 23.—[Special]—Yesterday and today marked events of great interest which were second only to that which witnessed the laying of the corner stone of the institution which was one day destined to be the foremost educational center of the great northwest. The alumni and sons of Beloit college have poured into the city in a continuous stream from all parts of the continent until today the city has the honor of entertaining the largest gathering of collegemen in her history. Nearly every class that has graduated from the institution is represented by at least one member, and the roll call of the later classes discloses nearly every member thereof in attendance. Yesterday was distinctively an alumni day, and all who studied in the college seemed to vie with each other in the most fitting remembrance of the day. The old First church never beheld such a gathering of old Beloit boys as assembled within its walls yesterday on the occasion of the renaissance exercises of the alumni. The day was set aside to exercises in keeping with the unveiling of the marble bust of Pres. A. L. Chapin.

Prof. Porter Speaks

The meeting opened with a prayer by President F. W. Fish, of the Theological Seminary. Prof. Porter, dean of the college, made the address for the unveiling ceremony. He spoke of the influence of President Chapin in shaping the course of the college in its early days, and the numerous sacrifices made by him that the west might have a christian institution of learning, and paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the beloved president.

Following this Prof. Joseph Emerson, the only living member of the first faculty, spoke on "The Early Faculty." He said, in brief: The college has felt the influence of the wonderful political and social changes since 1847, and the scarcely less revolutionary changes in educational methods during the same period. But her aim has been the same. If faith has claimed a wider scope, and faith a deeper sacrifice, her history exhibits the same sincere devotion to both.

We may distinguish four well defined epochs in the life of the institution; each of about twelve years. First is the formative period, from 1837 to the election of Lincoln; then to the war period, extending with its influence, down to about 1873, third, the period of intensive growth, to the inauguration of President Eaton, in 1886; and finally, the era of expansion that closes the half-century.

Beloit in the War.

Beloit sent her 450 heroes and her 46 martyrs to the front, and the hero spirit prevailed those who stayed by the staff at home, a new energy and fidelity prevailing the routine of the class room. The impulse of this spirit carried the college along for a dozen years from 1860—until the last of the soldier-sons, lieutenants, captains, colonels of regiments, had finished their academic preparation for the works of peace.

Succeeding the war period came the years from 1873 to the close of President Chapin's administration in 1886, years characterized rather by the gradual strengthening of the college than by sudden changes or dramatic incidents as the time of intensive growth.

The standard of admission was raised to correspond to the rise of standards at the east. The course of study was enriched, here a term of Greek, there of Latin, making way for geology, and history and English.

About the Alumni.

Of the alumni who graduated before 1876, 42 per cent entered the ministry, of those graduating since that date, 22 per cent. On the other hand, the teacher's profession shows an increase from 11 to 24 per cent and the callings of business in various forms attracted of the earlier graduates 15 per cent and of the later 23, while law, medicine and journalism show almost the same proportion in the two periods. These figures do not mean a lowering of the ideals that the college has impressed upon her sons but rather a broadening of the fields in which they are applied.

Each epoch has proved the strength of the foundations laid fifty years ago, and each found the college responsive to the demands laid upon her by the advance of knowledge, and by new conditions of social life. "The past is secure; the future is with God." But if the college is true to God's plan for her as revealed in her history, if she shall teach her students to read His truth and to read the needs of the hour, who dare doubt that the future is safe with God and with those whom He shall call to carry on His work?

After Professor Chapin finished, Rev. S. T. Kidder, '73, read a poem in memory of Professor Blaisdell, the minds of the people being turned towards that scholar by the trend of the exercises.

The Organ Recital.

At 3 o'clock the exercises were again resumed, and speech-making in the same trend of thought was indulged in by several alumni.

At 5 o'clock the college chapel was filled to overflowing by those who desired to enjoy the rare treat offered in the organ recital given by Professor B. D. Allen.

The chapel was again filled at 7:30, when the alumni exercises were resumed, and John R. Montgomery, '87, delivered an oration, and Professor Peter Hendrickson, '67, read an original poem.

One of the pleasantest social functions of the season is the president's annual reception, and the one tendered by President Eaton at his home last night, was an event that surpassed all previous efforts, and was enjoyed by large numbers of visiting alumni and other guests.

At the meeting of the alumni association the following officers were elected:

President—George L. Collie, '81.
Vice President—J. R. Montgomery, '87.

Secretary—C. W. Morrigan, '78.
Orator—L. E. Holden, '88.

Poet—Frank P. Pullen, '71.
Committee for Nominating Trustees—P. F. Pettibone, '62; Charles S. Bacon, '78; H. D. Denmore, '86.

Members of Board of Control—Geo. B. Ingersoll, '89, F. F. Norcross, '87, H. B. Humphrey, '79, Treasurer W. F. McCabe, '92.

The degree of L. L. D. was conferred upon Hon. Lyman J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury in Pres. McKinley's cabinet.

Today, graduation day proper, was opened with a prayer meeting in the chapel, attended by all the students, faculty and a large number of alumni.

The Graduation.

Preceding this service the First church was literally packed by an audience desiring to witness the last exercises of the fiftieth commencement. Although several ladies had been connected with the class during the year, the membership as it stood today was composed of eighteen young men, the ladies having severed their connection before time for graduation.

But three members of the class spoke, Herman S. Blanchard giving the salutatory, William Benson the valedictory address and Abraham Privat spoke on "Unwritten Law."

Rev. Fred Staff, '94, of Chicago, gave the Master's oration, and Prof. T. L. Wright read the class ode. Horace White, '53, editor of the New York Evening Post, gave the principal address.

A fitting close to this jubilee commencement, will be held this evening, when the senior concert takes place to which scores of people from Janesville, Rockford and the surrounding towns have procured seats and will swell the crowd in attendance on this, the greatest commencement Beloit has ever held, and will go down in history as a marked event in the life of the college.

"WE KEEP THE QUALITY UP."

Aids to Intelligent Shopping.

In this column we from day to day present the store news clearly and concisely, touching on new arrivals, standard values and bargains. Always something here of interest if one would keep posted on the store's movements.

AID 1—Black Wool Baste or veiling, just the thing for a cool summer dress. Received Monday. Width 36 inch; price 50c. It is excellent value, and beautiful, fine quality.

AID 2—Shirt Waist bargains. Overstocked; were 50, 60 and 75c. We have been offering them since Saturday at 25c. One look tells you that they're good to have at such a figure. Don't wait too long.

AID 3—Toilet Sacques, most comfortable garment a woman ever put on. Lovely styles in dainty striped dimity reduced from $2 to $1.40. Also all white with wide collars; lovely embroidery on collar and edging sleeves. Fine, sheer muslin; were $2.25, now $1.75.

AID 4—Wrappers, white dimity and muslin; very choice styles. About two dozen garments. Although made to sell at two to four times what we ask for them. We have put the price at 98c.

AID 5—In our last "ad." we mentioned black muslin Wrappers with small colored flowers, sheer quality, at $1.50. To push the sale of them we offer the lot at a figure that will do it—$1.15

AID 6—McCall Bazar Patterns. We took the agency for them the first of the year, but reluctantly, as we were not very favorably inclined toward patterns. We have been pleasantly surprised by the large number of patterns sold. They give excellent satisfaction, are up to date, easy to understand, sure fitting, and only 10c and 15c. Women tell us (but we know it full well) that it is all nonsense paying high prices for patterns when one can get the McCall Patterns at 10 and 15c.

AID 7—Genuine Shantung Pongee Silk, printed, designs artistic, colors, red, blue, brown, gray, purple; it is 27 inches wide, and we offer it at the former wholesale price, $6.50 a pattern, which measure 14 3/4 to 15 1/2 yards—just the thing for a light summer dress, and serviceable. Quality limited.

JULIUS HOBBS, M. D.

The favorable result of the recent test in this city of the value of Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills as a remedy for diseases of the kidneys and kindred ailments, and of his Little Liver Pills to cure biliousness, sick headache, and disorders of the liver, stomach and bowels, has caused sufferers residing in this and adjoining towns to send for samples and go to the drug store for full boxes. Dr. Hobbs Pills seem to be in general demand.

Letters from recovering and cured patients are coming in daily. Physicians are astounded at the rapid improvement in cases they have treated with the pills.

A physician, who had little idea that his words would ever appear in print, was recently overheard to say: "I have never in my life had faith in anything advertised as a medicine until recently, but I must confess that I really do believe that Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills possess great worth. I procured some of these pills and used them in my practice. Several of my patients have been taking them, and have experienced a great change for the better and no doubt his Little Liver Pills are equally as meritorious."

Feb 17, 1897.

I have suffered for several years with kidney troubles and a greater portion of the time have been afflicted with rheumatism also. In fact, until I got a box of Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills from the drug store of John Robinson, a couple of weeks ago, I have not been free from pain in many years. I am now glad to say my rheumatism has left me and that my old kidney trouble seems to have vanished and all owing to the merits of your wonderful pills. M. BRUNNER, New Franken, Wis.

T. H. WHITE WAS SLUGGED

Chicago Toughs Gaspied Him and Took His Chatter.

Thomas White formerly of this city is spending a few days here with Janesville friends. Incidentally he is allowing a long gash in the top of his head to heal up. The acquisitive tendency of an impolite Chicago man was responsible for the cut. The Chicagoan introduced himself to Mr. White with a two foot length of gas pipe and before he left he emptied Mr. White's pockets of money, watch and medals and going south at a 2:30 clip to get ahead of a Desplaines street policeman.

The Stomach Cannot Be Frightened

With greater trash than a violent drastic purgative. True, such a medicine relieves constipation for the time, but at the expense of great injury to the intestinal canal, which it both inflames and weakens, thus unfitting it for the performance of its proper functions. Widely different is the action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a tonic aperient which produces effects prompt, indeed, but never violent and convulsing. The purity of its botanical ingredients, its unobnoxious flavor, its gentle influence upon the mind, and the thoroughness of its remedial action in cases of constipation, liver complaint and dyspepsia, combine to render it a most desirable family specific. It increases both physical vigor and substance, tranquillizes and invigorates the nervous system, and gives an unexcelled relish for the food. A wine-glass three times daily is about the average dose.

When You Get Ready.

When you have consulted everybody else and have been treated for every known and unknown disease; when you have filled your system with one-pattern, ready-made, same-for-all, sure-cure preparations, when you have tried charms, spells, fakes, fads and fancies; if experience has taught you that Nature alone possesses the power to heal; that certain remedies assist Nature, but none of them cure; that it is better to work with Nature than to fight the disease; that the surest way to cure disease is to remove the cause of that disease, then we will gladly assist you with Rational remedies and methods which tend to build up and strengthen the entire system until Nature can assert herself and the Cause of disease is removed.

We treat the Patient, not the disease. This is one reason why we succeed where others have failed.

We have been in Janesville more than ten months and are here to stay. Consultation, opinion and advice free.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

217 B. C.—Battle of Thrasimenes; Hannibal almost destroyed the Roman army, and the Roman commander, Caius Flaminius, was killed.

1757—Battle of Plassey; Clive destroyed the Hindoo army and thereby established British rule over Bengal.

1850—The adjourned Democratic convention, sitting at Baltimore, nominated Stephen A. Douglas and James Fitzpatrick for president and vice president. On the same day the seceders' convention organized in the same city and nominated John C. Breckinridge and Joseph Lane. On the same date, but 32 years later (1882), the reunited Democracy at Chicago nominated Grover Cleveland for president by 610 out of 903 votes.

1855—Samuel Francis Du Pont, admiral in the United States navy, distinguished in the civil war, died in Philadelphia; born 1803.
1869—English battleship Victoria collided with the Camperdown off Tripoli and sank with 400 sailors.
1894—Mme. Marietta Alboni, famous contralto, died in Paris; born 1824. Alfred Post Bur bank, popular reader and actor, died in New York city; born 1846.

BRYAN SECOND CAMPAIGN.

It shows much cunning in endeavoring to democrat everywhere to endorse the entire Chicago platform. He is playing for the nomination in 1900, and in order to have chance must induce his late followers to reaffirm the doctrine for which he stood. Moreover, the conflict with gold democrats, which is steadily growing in bitterness, may be taken to mean that the dropping of any of the minor planks of the platform of 1896 will not win any votes from the Cleveland and Palmer element. Thus, if free silver is an issue at all three years hence, all the other follies and absurdities which stood with it last year will keep it company and Bryan, as the man most typical of these fantasies, will be the logical standard bearer.

Many things can happen, of course, in the three years which separate us from the next meeting of the national conventions, but republicans may as well bear in mind that eastern observers fully expect another national campaign on the silver issue, and see in recent developments an effort to keep the leadership within Mr. Bryan's reach.

PAID FOR EXPERIENCE.

There is a remarkable similarity in the reasons assigned by officials of Japan and Peru for the recent action of those two countries in the adoption of the gold standard.

In each case they say that the complications under the silver standard were so great as to prove disadvantageous to their foreign commerce. Both President Pierola and officials of Japan state that in practical experience their countries their countries found that the fluctuations in their own standard placed them at a disadvantage in commerce with other parts of the world, foreign buyers treating their coin as simply so much bullion, which they bought for gold and paid out to the people of those countries at its face value, thus causing loss to their people as well as uncertainty and constant difficulty in trade matters. This practical experience of people who have made long tests of the silver standard under the fluctuations in value of that metal is worth acres of theory such as was spread over the United States last fall upon this very subject.

CHARGE FOR FILLIBUSTERING.

People who are inclined to criticize the senate for its apparently slow progress on the tariff bill will understand from the following statement from the Washington Post the reason why republicans find it impossible to make rapid progress—they do not control the senate. The "Post" of recent date say: "With the swearing in of Senator McLaurin, the political complexion of the senate is established for some time to come. It is as follows:

Republicans.....43
Democrats.....34
Populists.....7
Silver Republicans.....5
Vacancy (Oregon).....1

Total.....90
Necessary for a majority.....45

There is no sentiment in a Bradstreet report, hence the great significance of the declaration: "Business is better than a year ago. The volume is larger and there are more people employed than prior to the last presidential election."

Philadelphia lost $233,800 by supplying its citizens with gas last year.

and thinks of referring the case to Prof. Ely.

Every week saved on the tariff bill will divert many millions from pockets into the national treasury.

Johnny Exonerated.

Jennie Chaffie is musical, much to the disgust of the neighbors. She pounds a piano by the hour. A few days ago, while going through Johnnie's clothes, Mrs. Chaffie unearthed a dime, which she suspected he had stolen from her, all of which Johnnie denied emphatically.

IS IT A TRIFLE?

That Common Trouble, Acid Dyspepsia or Sour Stomach.

Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to promptly digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic and being an every day occurrence is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is now becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. It is prepared by the Stuart Chemical Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and effectively restores a vigorous digestion, at the same time is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.

MRS. CUCKOW TELLS OF THE CROWNING

JANESVILLE WOMAN PRESENT AT CEREMONIES.

Saw the Grand Pageant at London Sixty Years Ago, and Had a Good Position By Reason of the Kindness of Soldiers—Mrs. Cuckow the Oldest "Britisher" at the Picnic.

Sixty years ago yesterday Mrs. Samuel J. Cuckow, who resides at 268 South Main street, attended the crowning of Queen Victoria, in London.

Yesterday Mrs. Cuckow attended the Queen's Jubilee picnic at Mayflower park, and spent the day in pleasant recollections of that memorable event of 60 years ago.

Although Mrs. Cuckow will be 82 years of age the twelfth of next October, she remembers the event of 60 years ago as if it was a happening of a recent date.

A Gazette representative found Mr. and Mrs. Cuckow at their South Main street home last evening, soon after their return from the day's outing, and they were then discussing the changes that these sixty years had brought in the world, when he called.

Was Close To Victoria.

"I remember well that great event that all the world is honoring," said Mrs. Cuckow, "and the recollection of the great crowds in London, and the way they cheered the queen while on her trip from the palace, will always remain fresh in my mind. I was born in Kent county, and not being far from London, a party of twenty of us made the trip that day in a stage drawn by four horses. When we arrived in the city the streets were crowded."

"During the procession I was fortunate in securing a splendid position. The queen's own soldiers guarded the line of march, and as I was allowed inside the line, my view of the queen, as she passed was unobstructed. She was seated in the royal carriage, trimmed in gold and drawn by eight cream colored horses."

"She bowed to the cheering multitude both right and left and her carriage passed but within a few feet of where I stood. Since coming to this country I have thought a great deal about the queen, for I believe she is loved by all and by even the Americans."

Came Here Years Ago.

Mrs. Cuckow says she thinks "Yankee enterprise" is responsible for the story about the queen being blind and that it is simply newspaper talk.

In 1835 Mrs. Cuckow made her first trip to America and the voyage lasted six weeks. Since then she has crossed the ocean four times.

Mr. Cuckow says he was no doubt the "oldest Britisher" at Mayflower Park yesterday. He was born in Rochester, England in 1819 and came to America in 1818 and the trip occupied three months. Since then he has made the ocean trip four times.

In 1851 Mr. Cuckow says he last saw the queen. It was at the World's Fair held in London.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cuckow are hale and hearty in spite of their advanced years, and it is the wish of their many friends that they may live and prosper for many years to come.

The Waupun Company was Headed By a Brass Band.

The Waupun fire department racing teams were in Janesville last night on their way to Geneva to take part in the state firemen's tournament. The delegation consisted of about forty people, headed by a brass band. They paraded the streets at 10:30 o'clock last night and remained here all night. They left this morning for Geneva.

HE GIVES $30,000 TO BELOIT COLLEGE

D. K. PEARSON'S SECOND LIB-ERAL DONATION.

Chicago Man Will Provide That Sum With Which to Erect a Ladies' Dormitory to Be Known as "Emerson Hall"—First Subscription Was For $100,000.

Beloit, June 24.—[Special]—Beloit college has received another substantial "gift."

D. K. Pearson, of Chicago, this morning gave $30,000 to the college to build a ladies' dormitory, to be called Emerson Hall.

Several years ago he gave $100,000 to build the Science Hall.

The announcement of D. K. Pearson's latest gift followed the conferring of degrees. Mr. Pearson, who has already given over a quarter of a million to the college, was called to the front and said modestly that he believed the women needed a college home as much as the men. He wanted the college to put up a $30,000 building at once, and said the money was ready. He suggested, moreover, that the women of the northwest furnish the rooms by small contributions. The cost of furnishing he estimated would be about $4,000.

The announcement of Mr. Pearson's $30,000 gift was received with marked feeling. There was another such scene as followed the first gift of $50,000.

The board of trustees filled out its list today by adding these names: B. A. Haugen, C. H. Hulbert and S. S. Ensign, Chicago; S. P. Wilder, Pueblo; R. L. Day, Aurora; A. Pierce, Milwaukee.

Governor Scofield was among the distinguished guests on the platform today.

After honoring Secretary Lyman P. Gage, diplomas were conferred as follows:

INVENTORY day in most of the Chicago jobbing houses is Friday of this week; and prior to that time they are offering every line of summer goods at clearing prices, which in some instances are half price. Mr. Simpson, of Archie Reid & Co., was in the city yesterday, and secured some special drives in the various lines; especially in wash goods, also a lot of new fancy ribbons, which will go into the 19 cent sale. Parasols and umbrellas were also looked after.

COTON COMPANY'S BIG PLANT IS SHUT DOWN.

High Prices Are Charged For Raw Material, While the Rates on Manufactured Goods Are Very Low—Three Hundred Hands Are Out of Work.

The machinery in the upper cotton mill is now silent and 300 hands are out of work.

The lower mill, at Monterey, is now running on half time and giving employment to 150 hands, out just how long this will last is a matter of much speculation.

The high price of raw cotton and the low price and slow demand for cotton cloth has brought this state of affairs about.

The cotton company will not continue to run the mills at a loss, and there the matter rests.

For several weeks past the demand for cotton cloth has been dull. Raw cotton is costing the Janesville company about 8 cents a pound, and at this price, under the present circumstances, the stockholders claim that it is too high. Cotton cloth is selling at a low figure and the average price per yard is below four cents. Hence, there is no money in the business and on the contrary they have been running at a loss. There is a large supply of cloth on hand, ready for the markets of the world.

Much Stock on Hand.

At the lower mill there is today enough raw cotton to last that mill until next August but whether or not this mill will continue to be operated remains to be seen.

One of the heaviest stockholders said that if he had his way the mill would have closed long ago.

"The mills in the south are employing hundreds of people and are operating at a good profit," remarked one of the directors this morning, "but this is easy to explain. In the first place, help in the south is cheaper than in the north, and the dinkies there will labor for a nominal sum compared to what the people of the north demand. In the second place, these cotton factories of the south are located right in the cotton regions, which saves quite an item of expense, when it comes to settling for transportation. These advantages give southern manufacturers the advantage over the local mills."

HOLD THE ROUNDUP IN THE BOWER CITY

FARM INSTITUTE CORPS TO RALLY HERE.

Ogden H. Fethers, Telephones From Madison That the Committee Has Decided to Hold the Closing Meeting in Janesville—Will Surpass Any Similar Event Ever Given.

Janesville gets the found up of the Wisconsin Farm Institute for next year.

The whole corps of workers will gather in this city for the concluding session, and the institute and midwinter fair will be the biggest one yet held.

The midwinter fair committee met a few days ago to consider the matter, and plans were discussed.

Ogden H. Fethers sent the Gazette a telephone message from Madison this afternoon, that the committee had voted to hold the roundup in this city. It took plenty of hard work to get them to take the right view of the matter, but Janesville was finally selected.

Plans for the roundup will be made early this year, and an institute and fair that will eclipse anything of the kind ever held in the state will be the result.

HAS A CLAIM AGAINST RICH-ARDSON PROPERTY.

Claims That He Had Cared For His Foster Parents For Many Years, and Asks For $5,000—Property Was All Left to Others—Judge Sale to Hear the Case.

Years of faithful and devoted service on the part of J. F. Willey towards the late Malachi L. Richardson and wife, were not rewarded on the death of that venerable gentleman and his wife, and Mr. Willey has now brought suit against the estate for $5,000. The case will be heard in County Judge J. W. Sale's court tomorrow. Witnesses will be present from the east, and as far south as Missouri. Mr. Willey is the editor of the Wisconsin Tobacco Leaf, and is a man well known in Janesville, where he has friends without number.

Malachi L. Richardson and wife are now both dead—Prior to their death they resided at 381 St. Mary's avenue. Both were numbered among the county's oldest residents. They left property valued at about $10,000. Attorney E. D. McGowan was appointed executor, and this property was to go to the heirs. Mr. Willey, it now seems, was not to receive a cent for his time and trouble, in spite of the fact that he was a foster child, and had resided with Mr. and Mrs. Richardson for years.

Sutherland & Nolan will represent the estate, and Fethers, Jeffris, Fifield & Mount will appear for the plaintiff.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

The Spirit of Fun.

If our girls and boys know but little else, we are certain they will assure us promptly that they understand the spirit of fun. It is born in them, they believe, and they have it in common with other young animals, for is not every living creature playful after a fashion of its own?

But how is it that the mere beasts are usually so gentle in their play? A horse will do his best to avoid stepping on you, even in fun. A dog will not bite you in fun, although he will worry a rag or a stick that you hold out to him and will chew it to bits unless you draw it away to offer your defenseless hand, which he will caress as tenderly as if his strong, sharp teeth had suddenly lost their power to hurt.

We once knew a parrot who was remarkably fond of play. She would waddle after a bit of string, laugh and chuckle when she captured it and then jerk her pretty head this way and that to seize her mistress' finger in her bill, simply to hold it with affectionate gentleness while coaxing for her head to be rubbed. The owner of the parrot managed never to startle or annoy her, and never by any chance was she bitten by the bird.

We have seen a pet animal forgive a great deal that he seemed to understand was done to him in fun, but don't imagine that rough play is really amusing, boys and girls. If you do, you haven't yet caught the spirit of fun, no matter how much your game may divert you. Real fun is enjoyed as much by one playfellow as by the other, you will find. When it is not, it degenerates into cruelty.—Our Animal Friends.

The Artist.

She says she is an artist,
This little Dorothy.
I'm sure you'd never doubt it
If you could only see her.

Her studio is my room,
And pinned outside the door
You'll find her sign, so businesslike.
What would an artist more?

Her models? They are various—
Mamma, papa and Jack.
She draws the cat and all her dolls.
Of models there's no lack.

THIS IS ME.
She made a sketch of me once.
I'll show it here to you.
Do you think that you would know me
From the picture that she drew?
—Youth's Companion.

Passing the Clothes Pegs.

For fun at a party the simple little game of "passing the clothes pegs" is about as good as anything you can find.

Supposing we have 16 players; then we require 16 clothes pegs or any smooth pieces of wood. The players stand in two lines facing each other, eight on each side. Each player holds the left wrist of his neighbor with his own right hand, so that each only has one hand at liberty. Place a chair at each end of each line, and at the top end eight pegs are placed on each of the chairs. When the signal is given, each side begins to pass the pegs one at a time and put them on the chair at the opposite end. As soon as the eight pegs are landed then pass them back, and the side wins which gets all the pegs back first. The thing to avoid is dropping the pegs on the floor, as it wastes time and loses the game.—Chicago Record.

With Johnny's Kite.

Where's that spool of thread of mother's?
Not a living soul can guess.
Where's that very pretty pattern
That was cut from sister's dress?
Where are all the silken tassels
Of the curtains? Out of sight.
And we cannot hope to find 'em,
For they're up with Johnny's kite.

Where are father's new suspenders
That he hasn't worn a week?
Where's the saddle girth and bridle?
Let the household standard speak!
Where's the flour we bought for breakfast?
In a scattered paste of white.
All the household's topey turvy
And gone up with Johnny's kite.
—Atlanta Constitution.

"Has To" and "Like To."

"Has to" and "like to," you see, are not the same things by any means, although, even if they were, perhaps we wouldn't like it any better. Some of us don't like to be "made" to do a thing even when we really want to do it. For instance, I heard a boy say once, "I did want to go to that circus until I heard father say that I must go with the others, and after that I wanted to stay at home."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Freddy went to Sunday school. He was in the infant class. One day his father said to him: "How is this, Freddy? You have been going to Sunday school for some time and have never yet brought home a good ticket. I am really ashamed of you."

"Papa," said the little culprit, swelling up like a toad, "I'll bring home a good ticket next Sunday, if—if I have to hook it!"—Montreal Star.

GIVES STRENGTH TO MEN

Free To All Who Are Weak And Worn

A METHOD TO CURE AND INCREASE THE POWER.

It is a remarkable fact that a man never appreciates the sufferings of others until he himself has passed through the fire of pain or remorse. Then it is that he looks around for those who are suffering; he wants them to profit by his experience; he gives his time and money gladly for the benefit of others and never tires of his zeal. There are plenty of men weak and worn out, struggling with remorse and fear, the natural outcome of habits that brought incapacity; a sense of oneseness—a feeling as if the best side of life had been banished forever. Such men should write to Thomas Slater, Box 49, Kalamazoo, Mich. He will send free by mail a plain, readable, envelope, full particulars about the method he used, and this will enable any man to get a complete cure at home. It is the method in which Mr. Slater used to cure himself of the troubles that sap the strength and vigor and also enlarged his organs to natural size. The cure was complete, so satisfying and such a wonderful change in his former condition that he will gladly tell others all about it, sending all particulars. He figures that he doesn't know of a better way to show his appreciation of his own cure and sufferings of others. There must be generous men in this world to offset the tide of avarice. Write to Mr. Slater—it will cost nothing for his description and method.

A Little More Cost Brings Big Profits.

The addressing, folding, inclosing, sealing and stamping of five thousand circulars, with postage, will cost at least $65, whether the circular is good or bad. Notwithstanding this fixed charge, some strive to save a dollar or two on the cost of printing, although the goods advertised are to be judged by the character of the printing, just as a house is judged by the character of its salesmen. Good printing costs but little more, and that "little more" brings greater returns than any other part of the cost. Order your printing where good work is assured.

Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test.

THE MENDICANTS.

We are as mendicants who believe
Along the roadside in the sun,
Tatters of yesterday and shreds
Of morrow clothe us every one.

And some are dotards, who believe
And glory in the days of old,
While some are dreamers, harping still
Upon an unknown age of gold.

Hopless or witless? Not one heeds
As lavish time comes down the way
And tosses in the suppliant hat
One great new minted gold today.

But there be others, happier far,
The vagabondish sons of God,
Who know the players and the flowers
And care not how the world may plod.

They idle in the traffic lands
And loiter through the woods with
To them the glory of the earth
Is but to hear a blackbird sing.

They, too, receive each one his day,
But their wise hearts know many things
Beyond the sating of desire,
Above the dignity of kings.

One, I remember, kept his coin,
And laughing flipped it in the air,
But when two strolling pipe players
Came by he tossed it to the pair.

Spendthrift of joy, his childish heart
Danced to their wild, outlandish bars.
Then supperless he laid him down
That night and slept beneath the stars.
—Bliss Carmen in London Sun.

HIS FIRST WIFE.

Madison Janeway was always pointed out as a "self made man" and was apparently well satisfied with his own handiwork, for content radiated from his full face and from his figure, which had lost its youthful muscle under creeping waves of flesh. Mr. Janeway had satisfied his ambitions as far as it is possible for a man to do it. Fortunately for his content these aspirations were of the kind that are most often realized. He had a handsome wife and three bright children; he was president of the state bank, an institution known to be founded on the rock of sound finance; he had been mayor of Shawnee and was a member of the legislature. So much of earthly glory had fallen to his share.

When he read the obituary of another self made man, he always nodded his head sagely, as much as to say, "I know how it goes; I started with nothing myself." In fact, Mr. Janeway's election to the legislature came of the admiration the electors had for a man of the people. When his constituents hired a band and went to congratulate him, they found him ready with a speech. He said: "Fellow citizens, I will not try to hide from you my deep gratification at the result of the election. I wanted to be elected. I have wanted a good many things, and I've generally got them, but not without working. I started with nothing; I did chores for my keep; I went to school when I could, picked up a penny here and a penny there; I did any honest work that I could find. And where am I now? President of a bank, ex-mayor and a member of the legislature. I thank you, friends, for your votes, yet I feel that I have won my own way; that I am one, a private perhaps, in the great army of self made men." He bowed and retired amid loud applause. In another this speech would have provoked criticism, but one of the privileges of the self made man is to praise his maker without stint.

Mr. and Mrs. Janeway had but just come from a visit to their own house, which their architect assured them was in the purest style of the Gothic renaissance. But they were sure, too, which seemed to them of far more importance, that it was the finest house in town and quite eclipsed Mrs. Morgan's red brick mansion.

They were to move into it at once, and Mrs. Janeway went about the old house planning what should be left behind, as not coming up to the artistic standard of the new place. "Come here a minute, Madison," she called from an obscure entry back of the dining room.

Mr. Janeway laid down his paper and went to her, followed by Florry, their youngest child. "What is it, my dear?" he asked.

"Haden't I better pack this away—the frame's so shabby that it isn't fit for the new house?" She pointed to a faded photograph hanging in a dark corner. It was the likeness of a plain woman, with a broad mouth and eyes widely separated; the hair was parted and drawn back from the forehead like two curtains; a watch chain picked out in gilt encircled her neck, and her lips and cheeks were touched by carmine, giving the face a ghastly pretense of life.

Mr. Janeway stared at it meditatively. "I hadn't noticed it for a long time," he said.

"Who is that lady, papa?" Florry asked, looking at the picture as if she saw it for the first time.

"Why, Florry, that was my first wife," he answered, surprised that she had not known it before.

"Was she my mamma too?"

"No, no," he replied hastily. "She was Sarah Deering."

"Wasn't she any relation to me?" the child persisted. She was but 8 years old, and the ramifications of kinship were yet a mystery to her.

"Of course not," her mother said rather sharply. "Your papa was married to her when he was very young—long before he lived here or knew me. I thought you had heard this before." She turned to her husband. "Madison, shall I lay this picture away?"

Mr. Janeway looked at her attentively. Was it zeal or an artistic ensemble, or was there a lurking jealousy of the woman who had come before? "Pack it away if you like," he said turning away. "It is shabby."

Long after his children and wife were sleeping Mr. Janeway sat smoking and thinking complacently of his success. He, Madison Janeway, had begun with nothing, and at 50 he had won the things he had longed for at 20. The opening and closing of the door attracted his attention. He looked up.

A woman walked across the room—a plain woman with an honest, ugly face and a short, thick figure.

"Who are you?" Mr. Janeway asked, frowning at her intrusion.

"Don't you know me, Maddy?" she returned.

He was startled when she called him Maddy—it was more than 20 years since he had been called that. "Are you—are you—you—but you can't be Sarah," he stammered. "She has been dead these many years."

"I am Sarah," she answered. "You have changed, Maddy."

"Yes—yes. We are apt to," he replied uneasily. "But you look just the same." He said this to see if she would account for her presence.

"The living can only see the dead as they were in life," she returned. "You sold the farm, didn't you?"

Mr. Janeway felt as if a reproach lay in the observation. "Yes, I sold the farm," he said. "I needed the money to put in other investments."

"I worked hard on that place," she said, crossing her hands—very rough, worn hands. "I worked hard there those years. I tried to save all I could, Maddy."

"You were a good wife, Sarah," he replied, "and both of us had our burdens, I guess."

"And it was my money that bought the farm. You had nothing when you came courting me, did you, Maddy? And you said that my being 30 years old and you being just of age made no difference."

"Yes, I suppose I said that, and I'm sure I always tried to be good to you," he said in answer to that unspoken reproach that seemed to lie behind her unspoken words. "I tried to treat you well."

"The money that came to me just before I died from Uncle John must have been a help. I left it and the farm to you, Maddy." Her dull eyes seemed to force him to acknowledge his debt.

"Yes—yes, Sarah. I know that I owe much to you. Without your help and money I should have had a much harder time getting on my feet. Yet I think I should have succeeded in any case." Mr. Janeway could not forbear offering this tribute to his self esteem. "However, I gratefully acknowledge your aid, Sarah."

"You have another wife now, Maddy, and children," she said, "but I was first. I believed in you, and I worked for you, oh, so willingly. I knew that you were different from me. I knew that you had hopes that stupid Sarah could never understand. I knew that I was your companion in your work, but not in your hopes. I knew that we were growing farther apart every year that we lived together. I knew that while I was getting to be worked out and middle aged you were only coming to your prime. I knew that it was best that I died when I did—before I came to be a drag on you. Yet, Maddy, before her and your children. I think you ought not to shame me, for I was your faithful wife, the wife of your youth, and I gave you all I had to give—my money, my love, my toil."

Before Mr. Janeway could answer she was gone, and he sat alone.

The next day, however, he took the old photograph down and ordered for it a gorgeous frame. When it was returned, he hung it in his library where it looked strangely alien between a St. Cecilia and the Arabian Falconer, bought at the instigation of the architect.

Florry, with a child's quickness, noticed the fine gilt frame that surrounded the ugly, good face. "What have you done to the lady?" she asked. "Aren't you going to pack her away, like mamma said?"

"No; the picture is to stay here. Do you remember who I said it was?"

"Yes; it was your first wife."

Mr. Janeway took her on his knee.

"Florry," he began soberly, "when I was a little boy, I was very poor, as poor as the Gaults"—a family celebrated in the town for ill luck and poverty.

"I went to school when I could, but that was mighty little, for I had to work most of the time. Sometimes I'd get most discouraged, but I had to work just the same. One year I worked for a man named Deering. He had a daughter, and when she found how much I wanted to go to school she lent me some money—money she had saved by pinching and scraping. After while her father died, and she married me. I had nothing, and she owned a good farm, but she married me. In six years she died and left everything to me. She gave me my start. She was a good woman and believed in me when nobody else did. The other night papa dreamed that he saw her and talked to her, and it made him feel ashamed that he had seemed to forget her."

Mr. Janeway felt that he was making a handsome reparation, but he was a man who aimed to do right. It was necessary to his self esteem.

The child wriggled from his arms and walked away, with an awed glance at the picture.

Mr. Janeway stared at it musingly. "Are you satisfied now, Sarah?" he caught himself saying. "Pshaw! That dream holds to me still," he exclaimed, "but anyhow I've done her justice."

And though the architect declared that the photograph quite spoiled the effect of the library and begged that it might be banished to some back room Mr. Janeway was firm, and the dull, good face of his first wife kept its place between the St. Cecilia and the Arabian Falconer.—Chicago News.

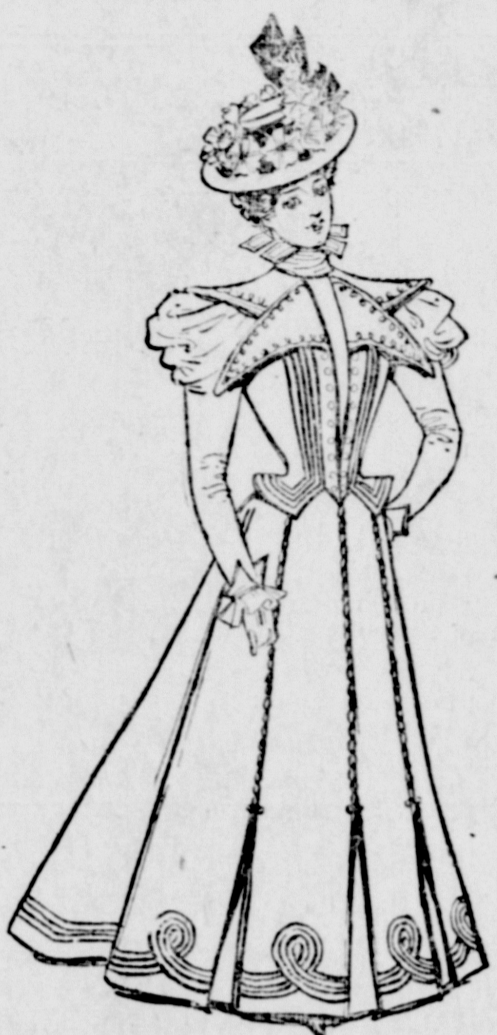

The New Ribbons.

The new ribbons are very delicate in texture like silken gauze, and the variety in grass linen effects has multiplied many times since last season. There are Scotch plaids, light tinted grounds plaided over with some strong color and scattered over with polka dots or sprays of flowers, and plain colors, with fancy edges of hair line stripes in various colors and checked borders, which are very effective. Taffeta seems to have the lead among the plain ribbons, and some of these are satin faced. Moire ribbons with corded edges are also seen.

COLOR COMBINATIONS.

Short Capes For "Sweet" Occasions—A Blue Cloth Dress.

Deep blue and pale green are among the new combinations seen this spring. Once this association would have seemed a deliberate outrage upon the laws of harmony and good taste. But so many more ill assorted unguis are now daily seen that it is quite harmonious by contrast. Moreover, an eye educated in color can combine seemingly incongruous tints with good effect by choosing exactly the right shades. An admixture of gold or white often softens what would otherwise be a harsh contrast. The use of white silk or cloth in colored costumes is very frequent.

Very short capes are to be much worn, but since the diminished size of sleeves has permitted jackets and coats to resume their position in favor capes are mainly used for rather elaborate wear or for traveling. In the former case they are short, very much decorated and very full. In the latter they are plain, longer and of material like the traveling gown or of goods having a plaid reverse. The jacket is more appropriate in all cases for young girls, for it may be enriched by braiding and cording of silk or gold or applications of cloth.

An illustration is given of a costume of dull blue cloth. The skirt is composed in front of four large flat plaits, held together by lines of black soutache, except near the foot, where they are left free to show panels of golden yellow surah. The foot of the skirt is adorned with a black braided pattern. The bodice, which is also trimmed with black soutache, has a small basque and a vest of white satin, trimmed with gold buttons, which opens over a plastron of gold surah. The collar and revers are of white satin, embroidered with black. The tight sleeves are slightly full at the top. The hat of rice straw is trimmed with black ribbon and pink hollyhocks.

VARIOUS NOTES.

Red Leather Belts and Pocketbooks—Ruffles and Ruches.

Hats of red straw, trimmed with red flowers, are very pretty and effective and go well with light weight tailor made costumes in black, navy blue, green, gray and mode shades. Red leather belts and pocketbooks finish such costumes very nicely. Hats of various solid colors of a vivid shade are seen, purple, blue and green being particularly favored. The purple straws are trimmed with violets, the blue with cornflowers, the green with green poppies or roses. The purple is considered to have the effect of reddening the lips and making the complexion appear fair.

Women who are fond of the cape have feared that it was doomed to be dropped out of the fashionable wardrobe at the return to favor of jackets and capes. Such is not the case, however. The cape is no longer indispensable and chosen by necessity, because sleeves are now comparatively simple and small. But it has an important place still and forms a fashionable adjunct to many elegant costumes. It is very short, very much trimmed and very fluffy. All colors and all systems of ornamentation are employed to render it effective and attractive, and it is so small as not to interfere with the beauties of the gown over which it is worn. It is short enough to display the figure, the waist appearing little by contrast with the ruffles which border the garment. Ruffles and ruches are used in profusion, and very few summer capes are plain around the edge. These trimmings are mounted with a heading, or the mounting is concealed by a very narrow ruche or a line of fine passementerie. The heading formed of the ruffle itself is considered more vaporous and effective. Plairings of gauze and mousseline de sole are also employed.

The cut shows a house gown of mauve and white broche silk. It is cut in princess form and is loose in front, being draped slightly at the side, where it is fastened. The half length sleeves are plaited at the lower part, forming puffs at the shoulder, and are finished with wide frills of lace at the elbow. The lace bertha forms coquilles at the side, and the collarette is of embroidered gauze.
